In addition to the automated reminders sent from OMET, instructors are encouraged to send their own personal emails and reminders. Some key points to include might be:

- How you have used constructive feedback in the past to make changes to teaching style.
- Changes you have made about textbook selection, assignments, or readings.
- Specific examples of past feedback and how it was used.

Students are more likely to complete the survey if they feel their feedback is valuable and taken seriously.